

Department of sociology

Programme Specific Outcomes

After completing the programme students are expected to

- know sociological concepts and theory, social equality, diversity and social issues.
- understand and to think critically about society and social problems.
- develop scientific temper and research qualities among students for the future career.

Course Outcomes

1) Sociological Traditions

After studying the paper students are expected to

- understand historical socio-economic and intellectual forces in the rise of sociological theory.
- understand emergence of sociological thoughts and to know about pioneer sociologists with their contributions to sociology.

2) Introduction to Research Methodology

After studying the paper students are expected to

- understand methodology and application of social science
- understand procedures, tools and techniques of social research.

3) Social problems in contemporary India

After studying the paper students are expected to

- Analyze some of emerging social problems from sociological perspective.
- sensitize the students about social problems of contemporary India and to discuss the measures on it.

4) Urban Sociology

After studying the paper students are expected to

- understand urban sociology and can comprehend the basic elements of the subject and urbanization.

5) Problems of Rural India

After studying the paper students are expected to

- know rural development in country like india where a large section of populatin still living in rural areas.

6) Contemporary Urban Issues

After studying the paper students are expected to

- understand and develop analytical capacity about urbanization .

7) Population in India

After studying the paper students are expected to

- understand the dynamics of population .

8) Sociology of Development

After studying the paper students are expected to

- acquaint with development issues in india

9) Introduction to Sociology

After studying the paper students are expected to

- familiarise with sociology and understand basic concepts subject matter of sociology.
- broaden their views of society beyond their own immediate experience and understand how and why their own experince may be similar or different to the experience of other.